TALKED TO DEMOCRATS

Hon. J. B. Foraker Warms the Bourbon Party.

FOUR THOUSAND GOOD PEOPLE

Heard the Distinguished Buckeye Statesman Call the Free Traders to Account for Their Many Shortcomings—A Few Facts on Sheep—Why Wilson Did Not Visit East Liverpool—That London Banquet—Tariff Nothing More Than Wages—One of the Best Political Speeches Ever Heard in the Ceramic City.

Four thousand people heard Hon. J. B. Foraker expound Republican principle at the Fifth street rink last evening, and 4,000 people went away with the impression that the Democratic party is not a good institution, and Mr. Foraker is a man whose abilities cannot be overestimated.

Because of the short time which the central committee had to prepare for the event, less than two days being the number of hours, the idea of a parade was abandoned yesterday afternoon, and no other demonstration in that line would be made than to have the Phoenix club cover the line of march and escort Mr. Foraker from his hotel to the Fifth street rink. The young men formed a splendid organization as they marched through the streets, Manley's band leading the procession, and Hayne's band bringing up the rear. There was red fire in abundance, and thousands of people thronged the streets as they marched by. At the Thompson house the orator's carriage was added to the line which marched up Broadway hill to the rink. There a great crowd had gathered, and 3,000 people applauded loudly when the speaker of the evening appeared on the platform. This number was increased by at least 1,000 and before the bands had ceased their music the rink and galleries were crowded, hundreds being unable to find seats. Chairman Will L. Smith called upon the secretary to read the list of vice presidents, and President William Monaghan took his station. In a few words the gentleman introduced the speaker to the "brawn, brain and beauty of this typical American city," and as Hon. J. B. Foraker, looking a little older and a little grayer than when he was here last, stepped to the front of the platform, the great crowd broke forth in tumultuous applause, cheer after cheer rising from people who knew and honored the man before them. For an hour and a half he talked earnestly yet pleasantly, and owned his audience from the first utterance.

After a brief reference to Chairman Monaghan he explained that he would not make a speech, he had quit that, and would simply talk, but his talk would be to Democrats. He was not present for the purpose of defending Republicanism; it didn't need any defense, and if it did Republicanism could speak for itself more eloquently than he. Then he became reminiscent, and recalling the last time he came to East Liverpool remembered that it was a reunion, and he left the sham battle to take his train when the Johnnies were on the run, and it reminded him that they were in the same position now, and he congratulated Democrats and Republicans because it was so. But he was here before that time, in 1883, and the chair of the meeting was a young lawyer, the man in whose behalf he had come to talk this time, Robert W. Taylor. The speaker paid him a glowing tribute, and then spoke of the "changes". In this connection he recalled the fact that to keep up with Democracy one must read their platform every year. No so with Republicanism; the principle was always the same. Then he quoted from the last platform adopted by Ohio Democrats, and showed that they were at least eloquent when describing distress. They were not alone in this, and to prove it he quoted from Henry Watterson, the great Democratic editor. The speaker knew it also, for farmers had told him how sheep sold in the district of Free Wool Congressman Richards for $4.50 a dozen, and a Vinton county man only got $3.50 after the commission on the sale. In Cincinnati, of 150 sheep had been deducted. That man was a Democrat but the sale gave him a little Republican education. All things were declining, land, sheep, factories, labor, and even Democratic candidates, and Mr. Raff would wish he had declined with the rest of them. Now the Democrats said the McKinley bill was responsible for all these hard times and financial disasters, but he would see about that. Then he read a few more extracts from Democratic platforms, showing that there were no hard times after Cleveland's first victory because he had a safety valve in the Republican senate, and Cleveland's platform was Republican in principle. But when Cleveland was elected on the dangerous policy that protection is unconstitutional and a fraud, the people took alarm. The country was shocked. Business men saw danger. Orders that should have been placed were pigeonholed, and those which had been placed were countermanded. The panic of 1893 commenced the morning after the election of Grover Cleveland because the Democrats had promised to revise the tariff. After a long discussion of how they had wronged the people, Mr. Foraker recalled a cartoon representing a sheepfold with a wolf climbing over the fence, and the sheep huddled in the farthest corner, which was so neat an application that the audience applauded loudly, and laughed with enjoyment.

Then he got after the Wilson bill, and gave it the most heartless scoring East Liverpool has ever heard, scoring none who were connected in its formation. He declared that it did not satisfy a thousand people in the country, but it made it a much easier task for Republicans to talk tariff arguments. Wilson was shown up in true light, contrasted with McKinley, and that English banquet ridiculed with cutting sarcasm. The speaker could not understand why, if Wilson knew he had been legislating for the people he had not visited East Liverpool instead of London, and a voice from the audience answered, "He knew better than to come here," a little incident which produced more applause. The Democrat party had cut wages all over the country; they had caused a reduction in East Liverpool, and that 12 1/2 per cent would never be returned as long as Cleveland and his party were in power. "Do you want another reduction?" said the speaker, "or do you want that 12 1/2 per cent returned?" If you want the old basis see that the Republican party controls the government, for its fundamental principle is to keep wages at that point where your children can be educated and your families permitted to enjoy the comforts of life. I won't try to convince a voter how he should vote. If he hasn't sense enough to do it after all the arguments Democracy has been giving him he is beyond salvation."

At the close of his eloquent argument Mr. Foraker was given an ovation by the people. They cheered again and again, and pressing forward to the platform shook his hand warmly. The meeting was enthusiastic, and the absence of a rough, rowdy element was marked. The people present were voters who vote and think, the men who know the value of their franchise. They were earnest and honest in their applause, a fact which the distinguished gentleman appreciated. When he referred to Coxey in contemptuous tones, the people showed their approbation with applause, and went home better Republicans for having been present.

An English View.

The Pottery Gazette, an English publication, sees the trade this way: "We are only too well aware of the fact that the McKinley act most seriously hampered the pottery trade, and made it impossible for our manufacturers to obtain orders from the States. For a long time, however, in anticipation of the reduction in the tariffs, many of them have been working for stock, so that it has enabled them to rush forward shipments immediately upon the demand arising. We are assured that orders are being booked from the States at such a speed as has not been known for many years, and that a number of manufacturers will be able to find full employment for their workpeople for some time to come."

A Few New Moons.

Mr. H. Fryatt, a gentleman who finds time to interest himself in astronomy, writes the News Review that the moons of Mars can be seen any clear evening, provided the observer uses a mirror to reflect that part of the heavens in which our neighbor rests. The glass must be French plate, perfectly clear, and held so the observer can readily see the reflection. The moons are small and are not visible to the naked eye.

Rinehart Objects.

John Rinehart objects because he is compelled to haul the dirt from Church alley to the river road near the Thompson pottery. He says that the other contractors are not put to such great expense, and he can not see why it should be demanded of him.

May Prove Serious.

John Waite is suffering with a hand which now shows symptoms of blood poisoning. The young man sprained the member recently and it will probably result seriously.

NOW FOR THE BATTLE

Manufacturers are Ready to Hold Prices.

THE PITTSBURG MEETING IS OVER

Two Stories as to the Result Are Floating About, But There Seems to Have Been an Organization—The Compact an Important Agreement For All Concerned.

The meeting of manufacturing potteries at Pittsburgh is ended, and while two stories are afloat there seems little doubt that they reached an agreement.

The Pittsburgh papers say that they failed to reach a satisfactory conclusion and the adjournment was made without anything of importance being accomplished, but that story is denied by the statements of manufacturers who were present. A member of one of the best known concerns in the country said today that the business was over, and so far as he was concerned it was eminently satisfactory. From other sources it was gleaned that the compact was formed, and committees would look after the arrangement of the new schedule. Whether it provides for an increase in the present rates, or is simply a measure to keep them from going lower, is not known. A significant expression was heard when the remark was made that there were enough firms in the compact to close reductions for the present at least, which means that the great majority of potteries are on the list.

Local manufacturers will not talk about the meeting yesterday, but intimations are flying all over the city.

PEGGY COOLEY'S CORNER.

Matters Which Greet the Observant Ramble.

Some people glory in the fact that their absolute rule is to give nothing in the way of charity. They know nothing of the truth of the assertion that "tis more blessed to give than to receive."

"Tis a very bad indication for the happiness of a home to never see husband and wife accompany one another upon the streets or attending church and lectures.

One truly charitable lady of this city, when her gift of preserved fruits was rejected by a committee which was collecting dry goods, groceries, etc., to send to a needy minister's family in a far western state, on the plea that it was feared the glass might be broken in transit, was approached by a lady Samaritan with the story of a suffering woman, in delicate health, in East Liverpool, in need of the common necessities of life. Holding out the fruit to her questioner, this noble woman said: "Oh, take them, take them, and come to me if you need further help. We are not wealthy at our home, but God gives us sufficient to help those who are more needy than we are—bless His holy name."

Think more of yourself than of the good and holy cause which you profess to represent, and push self forward in place of principle and right, and you will eventually meet with disaster and defeat. God has ordained that such shall be the result.

But one disturber at the Foraker meeting last night. He was red-headed, cross-eyed, bow-legged, knock-kneed and spavined, was not feeling well himself and was cheering for Coxey.

The handsome bills being turned out at the News Review office are attracting much favorable comment among our merchants, business men and citizens in general. Use good materials, pay first-class wages and employ the best and most skillful union printers in all this section.

An anonymous correspondent or writer even shows the ear marks of a rascal and coward. Treat all such epistles with the contempt they so richly deserve.

NEWS FROM LISBON.

The Weary Grind of the County Courts Goes Merrily On.

The will of the late George Firth, of Salem township, was filed in the probate court today and application for its admission to probate made, which will be heard October 27. The final account of M. H. Endley, guardian of Cline Huston and others, and the first and final account of A. J. Witzman, guardian of James L. Koch, was filed and set for hearing November 23.

Thus far this month thirty-one couples have applied to the county for permission to be joined together. Those to whom license were issued today are William Ashbridge and Maggie Ashman, Gilbert Dennis and Mary Vollnogle, William H. Miller and Margaret L. Campbell, Edward R. Watson and Virginia Lodge.

Several transfers were recorded here today from the southern part of the county, the following property changing hands: One half acre in Salineville, $1,450. Ambrose Bradshaw and wife to William Butler, lot 3319 in East Liverpool, $1,600. Joseph G. Lee and wife to Albert Campbell, lot 2142 in East Liverpool, $300. T. M. Bennett and wife to E. K. Bennett, lot 2144 in East Liverpool, $500. Stanton Thomas and wife to W. B. Orr, 34.45 acres in Middleton township, $2,200. The north part of lot 890, in Basil Simms addition to East Liverpool, was transferred today from John Ryan and others to Patrick Ryan for $7.

THE EASTERN STAR

Did Well in Entertaining the Masons Last Evening.

The first reception of the Eastern Star, in the Masonic rooms, were attended last evening by fully 150 persons. The evening was opened by a short literary program, Matron Mrs. Hill explaining the objects of the order. Dancing followed until all the visitors were escorted to the banquet room, where two long tables, beautifully arrayed in china and silver, contained the finest feast ever set in the Masonic rooms. At the close Will A. Rhodes responded to the toast "Our Guests," Charles Birkett and Henry E. Porter answered "The Ladies," and a long excuse because he was alive and present was made by F. Isaac Simmers. Dancing was continued until 1 o'clock, and the ladies proved their ability not only to entertain, but to make every Mason feel that he was thoroughly at home.

A LIVERPOOL CASE

Findes Place in Common Pleas Court Today.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.

New Lisbon, Oct. 19.—David Boyce, treasurer of Neville institute, filed a petition this morning asking an order of sale for the north half of lot 67 in Liverpool owned by J. M. Hamilton against whom he received judgment last June for $109, but could not collect. George Hamilton, one of the defendants, filed an answer and cross petition and motion for the appointment of a receiver authorized to collect rents. It says that $1096.69 is due him from the defendant, J. M. Hamilton, on notes, and he can not collect because of prior claims.

The O'Rourke case is being tried today. Ten witnesses from East Liverpool are present.

STRAUSS IS OUT.

He Declines to be Tammany's Candidate For Mayor.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.

New York, Oct. 19.—Nathan Strauss, Tammany's candidate for mayor, declined the nomination this morning, and the leaders are in despair.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

Gone Up in Smoke at Beaver Falls—Great Conflagration.

Special to NEWS REVIEW.

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 19.—Fire broke out at 11 o'clock last night in L. Strub's block and at 9 o'clock this morning is still raging. Townsend brothers frame dwelling was destroyed and Strub's furniture store gutted. The fire in the store was so hot that telephone poles 90 feet away, on Seventh avenue, were set afire. Water supply is short and if it is not replenished the entire town is in danger. The loss so far is fully $75,000.

SALINEVILLE.

William J. Sloan M. D., was in town Saturday on business.

Quite a number from this place attended the Foraker meeting at East Liverpool last night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Collins attended the funeral of their friend, Mr. Lockard, of Cleveland, last week.

H. R. Schaff, wife and Miss Eliza Walter were in Salem yesterday on a combined trip of pleasure and business.

Hon. R. W. Taylor will address the citizens of Salineville in the old Kirk-Burton warehouse, Friday evening Oct. 19.

Elias Still, who was sent up to the probate court for insanity, has again obtained his freedom, his insanity not being of a type that deserved treatment.

John R. Russell and Miss Ida McGilivray will be united in marriage at 8 o'clock p. m., Thursday, Oct. 18, at the home of the bride's father, John H. McGilivray.

AMAZONS DO BATTLE

Four Women in a Lively Row Yesterday.

ALL SORTS OF MEAN THINGS SAID

By the Infuriated Party—An Exhibition Which Interested a West End Crowd and Caused no End of Excitement For a Little While.

Four women waged war in the West End yesterday afternoon, much to the amusement of almost a hundred people.

Two were in a store when two others passed. They were not friends because the husband of one has left her, and a remark recalling the incident brought forth a derisive reply. That started the fun. A moment after the four began talking they were saying all sorts of mean things, and accusing each other of almost every sin on the calendar. The telephone men are working in that section, and they abandoned their labors for the sole purpose of enjoying the occasion. Some witnesses assert that the women came to blows, while others say there was nothing more serious than a vast amount of nonsense from each one. At best the occurrence was disgraceful in the extreme, and if an officer had been in the vicinity it is certain that some one would have been arrested. The people who say that blows were actually given and received are firm in their part of the story.

A Glorious Victory.

Hon. Joseph B. Foraker was far too weary to talk politics last evening, but he found time to tell a News Review man that there was no doubt that the country would see a great Republican victory next month. The majority in Ohio could only be limited by the number of Republicans who remained at home, for the ticket would draw largely from other parties this year. The gentleman has few equals as an entertaining conversationalist.

He Paid Up.

A man with exceedingly lengthy locks boarded the train at Wellsville at 1 o'clock today and after it had started informed the conductor that he had no ticket. He acted so strangely that some of the passengers were frightened. He was finally persuaded to pay his fare, but it was no easy matter to get it and he wanted the conductor to stay with him afterward.

Fell From a Car.

When a lot of small boys were playing about some cars on the Horn switch this morning, a youngster named Parr had the misfortune to fall. He dropped between two cars, and striking his head on a rail sustained such injuries that the crowd which gathered called a physician and took the boy home. Parr alighted on the back of his head.

Made Good Time.

Messrs. John McKinney and Homer Risinger made the run yesterday from Pittsburgh to East Liverpool, on their wheels, in six hours. Dandy nice time, when one takes into consideration the fact that the roads are very bad between here and Sewickley. George Meredith, Jr., made the same run the day before yesterday in seven hours.

He Dropped Business.

Chief Adam was busily engaged in making preparations to erect an awning in front of the Blue flag grocery this morning, when an alarm of fire rang out. He dropped book, pencil, measuring rod, etc., and with the remark "excuse me, gentlemen," made a beeline for headquarters.

On Duty Again.

Miss Captain Turner, one of the most ardent workers in the Salvation army, returned yesterday to resume charge of the local division. The lady is a resident of Chester, W. Va., and is just recovering from an illness caused by being attacked by a crowd of toughs in Cleveland.

Squirrels In Plenty.

Bert Waggoner, J. McKee and Bert Queen returned today from Ashland county, where they have been hunting. They were successful, capturing 75 squirrels, and say that the only thing that marred the pleasure of the outing was the scarcity of square meals.

Pleasant Enchere Party.

Mrs. J. E. Orr pleasantly entertained a number of friends with a enchere party at her home Wednesday night in honor of her sister, Miss Lizzie Sennott, of Pittsburg, and a friend, Miss Emma Zweidinger, of Cleveland.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, OCT. 19

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Secretary of State, S. M. TAYLOR.

Judge of Supreme Court, JOHN A. SHANK.

Member of Board of Public Works, CHARLES J. GRACE.

Commissioner of Schools, O. J. CARSON.

Congressman, R. W. TAYLOR.

Prosecuting Attorney, C. S. SPEAKER.

Commissioner, SAMUEL BYE.

Infirmary Director, C. D. FILLSON.

For President, WILLIAM MCKINLEY, Of Ohio.

Coxey in congress would make the Eighteenth district the butt of every newspaper paragraph in the country.

WILLIE WILSON should be defeated at the polls, given a thorough political spanking, and then retired to private life.

The only prosperity East Liverpool enjoys is the prosperity of Democratic legislation—a reduction of 124 per cent.

GET OUT the Republican vote. Do not permit overconfidence to win the greatest political battle in which Ohio was ever engaged.

TAYLOR is winning every day, and his majority will show in what degree the people refuse to be fooled by the campaign political monstrosity, Mr. Coxey.

The man who votes against the Republican party at the coming election not only votes against his own interests, but binds himself with the Democratic chain of poverty.

WHEN Governor McKinley goes to the south he will show to some of the Louisiana brethren of the Democratic persuasion that Ohio's leader is a leader worthy the confidence and esteem of the nation.

THE Democratic organization in this county is of no account as a persuader of persons, and the Republican ticket will lose few votes because the bourbon press has no better campaign argument than the cursing of Mr. Bye.

A TOLEDO VIEW.

The Toledo Blade has been reviewing the congressional campaign, and dropping into the Eighteenth district, obtains this view:

"There is a three-cornered fight on in the Eighteenth district. This is a part of the old McKinley district, and two years ago Mr. Ikt, Democrat, got 1,211 majority. This was because of dissatisfaction in the Republican party. This year the Republicans nominated R. W. Taylor. Ikt refused to be a candidate, knowing the fate that surely awaited him. This district is the home of Coxey, and he is the Populist candidate, but is not cutting the important figure expected. There is also an independent Republican candidate named Hole, and he is already in a very deep hole. Taylor's election is conceded by all fair minded men. He is popular with all classes, a good stumper and knows how to manipulate political wires. Ikt Democrats are not taking an active interest in the campaign, and Taylor will have an old fashioned majority."

There is no denying the statements made in the above. East Liverpool and all the district, when it thinks seriously, knows them to be true.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The NEWS REVIEW always gives the news, and it is not done with scissors either.

Elmer Gaston entertained friends to the number of 25 at his home on Sixth street last evening.

The crossing of wires in some part of town caused the big fire bell to ring out an alarm this morning.

This city is said to be one of the strongest Christian Endeavor towns in proportion to its population in Ohio.

Ed. Fowler, who has been employed at Alexandria, Ind., is home. If he can not secure work in the potteries here he will return to the west.

A patrol box was erected at Burford's pottery yesterday, and upon being tried this morning it proved that it would answer every purpose.

Two men fought a hard fight in the East End yesterday afternoon. There were no arrests and the crowd could not understand the cause of the battle.

An unknown drunk caused a commotion in the Diamond late last night. He insisted on singing hymns until some of his friends took him home.

The home of John Milliron, Third street, was the scene of a merry gathering last evening. A large party of young people spent a delightful evening.

A Pittsburg wheelman giving his name as McNaughton broke his wheel between this city and Wellsville yesterday, and went home by rail. He cut his head when he fell.

Commissioner Bye attended the Foraker meeting last night, and was shaking hands with his many friends here earlier in the evening. The gentleman can see Republican victory in the air.

The new school building is being placed under roof as rapidly as possible and the tower mounts higher each day. Workmen say that it will be finished long before the contract time expires.

Great quantities of crockery continue to go from the city filling orders from all parts of the country. A day was seen today loaded with six casks of ware and they were billed to as many different states.

People who have been worrying because they believed two telephone poles would stand at the corner of Fourth and Washington streets can rest with ease. The old pole was dismantled and taken down today.

The NEWS REVIEW stated yesterday that a case of diphtheria had appeared at the home of T. B. Bahl, on Walnut street. Mr. Bahl says that the item is in error, and his family are well. The correction is gladly made.

Nancy and Roxey Taylor, Fifth street, have been made happy by the presentation to them of a very handsome piano, the gift of their grand-ma, Mrs. Kerr, of Toronto. There should be light hearts and merry music in the Taylor household.

The poor authorities hope they will have few heavy drafts on the township purse this winter. The policy of sending indigent persons to the county infirmary is being carried out, two persons being sent last week and one during this week. The expenses have been so low the past few weeks that the trustees think they can see better times for them at last.

But little money has been wagered in this place on the election, and the prospect for any considerable amount being risked is not good. Everyone concedes that the Republicans will carry the county, and while some Coxey men claim that he will be elected to congress, it has not been learned that any have risked their wealth in that direction.

The chair social of the Young Men's Christian association will take place on Tuesday night next, Oct. 20. Gentlemen, bring your chairs with you, and then forget to take them home, making a nice and much-to-be-desired contribution to a good cause. The entertainment will be a specially pleasing one. Vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., will gratify you.

Capt. E. Narroway, who has been in charge of the Salvation Army here, was summoned to St. Paul this week, and left yesterday. The new line of duty before the officer is to take charge of the training school in the western city, an important place in that department. The new officers are expected here in a day or two, and preparations will be made to begin the winter campaign against sin.

"I am ever called upon to vote for woman's suffrage I shall oppose it," remarked a well known resident this morning, "and simply because no person should vote who will not listen to a political speech. The actions of a few girls at the meeting last night disgusted me. They laughed and talked, chewed gum and gossiped in a manner not only insulting to the speaker, but to every person in the audience who wanted to hear. So long as women act that way they can't get my vote."

THE OLD BLUE FLAG.

They Are Now Open For Business With You.

Oh, yes, ye residents of East Liverpool and vicinity, the famous old Blue Flag stand is once more alive and open for bustling business. Mr. Isaac Fondersmith has opened up with a first-class stock of groceries and provisions, and will handle everything common to the business, in season. W. J. Harvey, the genial manager, will be glad to greet and wait upon you, confident that he can guarantee satisfaction in goods and prices. Connected with this fine grocery establishment, in the room adjoining the grocery proper, Mr. Fondersmith has established a fine meat market, under charge of Frank Fondersmith, where can always be had the very best meats the market affords. Reasonable prices will be the rule, and you will find it will pay you to deal at the Blue Flag stand, 162 and 164 Fifth street.

LADIES, LADIES,

Have You Heard of the Beautiful Winter Fashions?

If you have not, then you have now a golden opportunity, as Miss Lizzie Wilson, the justly popular milliner, Foutts & Stevenson block, East Liverpool, will make a grand display of winter hats and bonnets on Saturday and Monday, October 20 and 22. All the very latest styles and fashions will await your inspection, while courteous and clever saleswomen will take pleasure in exhibiting these truly artistic and beautiful specimens of headwear. The prices of these goods will be sure to please you. Remember the dates, October 20 and 22.

There is no medicine so often needed to every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before they become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

The Case Postponed.

The case of Mrs. McFadden, proprietor of old Gallagher saloon, charged with Sunday liquor selling, was to have been tried by Mayor Gilbert this afternoon, but was postponed until Friday next at 2 o'clock.

LOVE AND CASTE.

A Match Broken Off Because Money and Rank Run Afloat of Each Other.

The last London season is said to have been almost the worst on record for matchmaking. The number of engagements publicly announced is surprisingly small, and one of the most interesting, that of Lord Willoughby de Eresby, M. P., eldest son of the Earl of Ancaster, to Miss Muriel Wilson, the youngest daughter of Arthur Wilson of Tranby Croft, has been broken off for reasons unknown to the public at large. The lady's parents were the Prince of Wales' hosts at the time of the dreadful baccarat scandal. They are enormously wealthy, and their daughter is pretty and amiable, so that polite society is much worried as to the cause of the quarrel which has led to such a disastrous result. The fault is believed to rest mainly with the parents. Arthur Wilson, though a plebeian by birth and a shipowner by trade, thinks himself as good as any earl living, and he is entitled to that faith in his social standing, seeing that he has hobnobbed with princes on more than one occasion.

On the other hand, the Earl of Ancaster is not an ordinary peer. He holds the exalted post of lord great chamberlain and is the head of one of the most ancient families in this country, with a fine old fashioned contempt for upstart bourgeoisie. But polite society asks, if he didn't like the family into which his son proposed to marry, why did he consent to the match? The parties concerned invited controversy over what would ordinarily be a purely private matter by the ostentatious manner in which engagement and rupture alike have been announced. —New York Sun's London Letter.

Annoyed by Tramps.

The East End is suffering more than its share of annoyance from tramps, and some of the people in that part of town threaten to greet the wanderers with a little hot water if they do not assume a more respectful role in the future. A number of cases have appeared where housekeepers would have been justified in giving the impudent fellows a lesson they would not soon forget.
